Woodstock voters approve budget hike, growth controls

In a calm but lengthy annual Town Meeting Monday night, Woodstock voters approved four growth control ordinances proposed by the town's Planning Board, and they passed warrant articles constituting an increase of approximately 32 percent in the amount of money the town will raise and appropriate for its 1988 budget.

Voters also elected Dennis Poland to a three-year term as selectman, assessor and overseer of the poor. He defeated Paul Hillquist and Margaret Hand by a vote of 98-60-11. He replaces retiring Ethel Davis.

The growth control ordinances passed by voters included a comprehensive set of subdivision regulations, amendments to the town's road ordinances to bring them into line with the subdivision regulations, a minimum lot size ordinance of one acre per single family dwelling and a 200-foot minimum shore frontage requirement for lakeside building lots.

The minimum lot size ordinance drew scattered opposition; the other three articles passed unanimously.

Early in the meeting an article raising funds for general town government drew considerable discussion, as voters questioned the salaries the selectmen received for their dual roles as selectmen and assessors.

Larry Billings proposed an amendment limiting the total salary any one member of the board could receive to $1,000.

Selectman Gary Wing argued such a limit was unrealistic in view of the greatly increased workload of the board. And First Selectman George Hooper said: "If you're saying that you want someone to

School Board given postview of OM entries

At Monday night's meeting of the Board of Directors of SAD #44, the proceedings were lived up to by the presence of students from Crescent Park School demonstrating what they had to do in the recent Odyssey of the Mind competition at Oxford Hills.

Odyssey of the Mind (or OM, as it is commonly called) is a nationwide program that has as its goal creative problem solving. So, for example, teams of students are told to design and build a structure out of balsa dowels to be able to withstand great weights. The CPS students who took part in this event showed the board members photos of their structure, which withstood a weight of 27 pounds. They took third place for their design. The team was coached by Jean Bass. (In comparison, the winning high school team built a lightweight structure that held up over 300 pounds.)

The team calling itself Snoop's Group took second place for its animated cartoon and cartoon art. The group was coached by Nancy Grover, who explained that the coaches and other volunteer helpers were not permitted to offer any

Legislature OKs CMP import plan

Both houses of the state Legislature late last week passed a bill approving Central Maine Power's proposal to import up to 1,000 megawatts of power from the Hydro-Quebec project in Canada. CMP would construct a high-voltage powerline through western Maine to carry the imported power into Maine and to other customers throughout New England.

The bill expresses the sentiment of the Legislature that the imported power is necessary for the state's energy supply. The bill does not give CMP permission to construct the powerline or import the power. The state Public Utilities Commission and the federal government must pass judgment on the latter issue, while the state Department of Environmental Protection must pass judgment on the former issue.

In the Senate, only three senators voted against the proposal. Among them was Ed Erwin (D-Rumford). The vote was 28-3. Sen. Erwin told The Citizen afterwards his vote indicated his dissatisfaction with having the bill on the Senate floor before the PUC and DEP had said whether or not they approve the project. (The PUC is in the midst of hearings on

Citizen announces deadlines for summer recreation supplement

The Citizen's summer recreation supplement will be published the first week of May.

The popular and colorful tourism tabloid will, as usual, be distributed in New York City, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Maine entry points, as well as locally. The Citizen will print and distribute 35,000 copies of the tabloid, which is designed to introduce western Maine to prospective visitors, and to provide information on where to stay, where to dine and what to do in the area. The tabloid, will, as usual, be filled with interesting articles and photographs, as well as advertising messages.

Those who have advertised in the past were notified by mail last week of the impending deadline for advertising. That deadline is April 8.

April 8 is also the deadline for events to be listed in the calendar of the tabloid.

For further information, call The Citizen office, at 824-2444.

Gilead halts cluster and multi-unit buildings

At their annual Town Meeting Saturday, Gilead voters passed without opposition a building moratorium on cluster housing and multi-family units.

According to First Selectman Fernand Corriveau, the one-year moratorium is intended to give the town time to review and adopt ordinances to control the town's growth.

The selectmen have asked that anyone interested in serving on a committee to develop such ordinances contact them.

In all, voters approved warrant articles calling for the town to raise $98,039, up from $93,080 last year.

In the voting for town officials, the only contested election of the night was for third selectman, where incumbent Daniel Barnes was defeated, 22-17, by challenger James Sweetser.

Other officials elected at the meeting were: First Selectman Fernand Corriveau, Second Selectman Robert Taylor, Town Clerk Mildred McLain, Tax Collector Beverley Corriveau, Treasurer Linsley A. Chapman, School Committee Member Maxine Corriveau and Highway Commissioner Harry Taylor.

Forty voters turned out for Saturday's meeting, which lasted a little over an hour.

Extending the life of the landfill

Among the goals Bethel's town manager has set for town government in the next fiscal year—beginning July 1—is a recycling project at the landfill. This is a project that The Citizen, and various citizens, and most recently the regional recycling committee have been urging, and one which the selectmen consistently declined to consider. (However, they did permit a Rumford service agency to place a newspaper recycling shed at the landfill last year.) Although it would have been good to have recycling at the landfill years ago, it will still help to install a recycling system even at this late date.

The date is late. According to the town manager, at the rate the landfill is filling up, the town—and neighboring towns—will only be able to use it for two to three more years.

What then? The town manager admits there are no answers yet, just the realization that whatever comes next will be a lot more expensive for the town than the present solid waste disposal system.

As the town manager warned other town officials, "Probably the most critical issue facing the Town of Bethel is what to do with our solid waste after the landfill is used up. . . . In order to buy us the time we need in which to find an alternative solution to the solid waste problem, we must extend the life of the landfill. This will involve taking some unpopular steps to restrict the type and volume of waste coming into the landfill. But do we really have another choice at this time?"

The answer is definitely that we have no other choice, and keeping construction debris out, while segregating glass and all sorts of paper waste will at least indicate that the townspeople are trying to cope with the situation.

A note from the publisher

It will come as no surprise to any of you, I'm sure, that postal rates are going up again. While the most obvious effect for most people will be having to use 25-cent stamps for a first-class letter instead of 22-cent stamps, there are other cost increases as well.

For the Bethel Citizen—and other community newspapers as well—it will cost us 10 percent more in postage to mail our papers to you if you live in Oxford County. If you are a subscriber who lives outside Oxford County, it will cost us 25 percent more to mail our paper to you.

You have probably heard news reports that 3rd-class—or so-called junk mail—is getting hardest hit in the current round of postal rate increases. Don't believe it. In fact, the increases for so-called junk mail are the same as for newspapers, which are mailed under 2nd-class permits.

The idea behind the 2nd-class permit was to offer a fast and economical way for community newspapers to get to their readers. The federal government figured, correctly, that it was to the benefit of a community to have a local paper in order to keep citizens informed about local issues. The lower 2nd-class rate was to be a boon to local papers so they could keep their subscription rates down and thus attract more subscribers.

While 2nd-class postage is cheaper than 1st-class, it has been increased steadily over the years and is about equal with 3rd-class, or junk mail. The in-county rate for newspapers is now 5 cents for two ounces. The in-county rate for junk mail is 10 cents. The out-of-county rate for newspapers is 9 cents. The out-of-county rate for junk mail is 10 cents.

What the rate structure fosters is the continued growth of junk mail at the expense of legitimate newspapers. As long as a bulk mail advertiser can send out his message for about the same amount that a newspaper publisher can—and not have any additional costs for collecting and printing news—mailboxes will be filled with junk mail. Back in the days when newspapers were given decided preference over 3rd-class, advertisers—except for catalogue houses—universally used newspapers to deliver their messages.

Despite the increase in 2nd-class postage rates, and despite a 6 percent increase in the cost of newsprint, The Citizen will not increase its subscription rate for in-county subscribers. It will remain at $10 a year. Nor will we increase the single-issue price of the paper. It will remain at 25 cents.

We will, however, increase the price of subscriptions sent to other parts of Maine, outside Oxford County. We had been charging these subscriptions at the same rate as the local subscriptions. We will now charge these out-of-county subscriptions at the general out-of-state rate, which is $13 a year.

With the higher cost of mailing out our paper, I wonder if our subscribers can expect to receive the paper in a more timely fashion? The most frequent complaint we receive here at The Citizen office is from frustrated subscribers wondering why their paper has not arrived. What we tell them is to complain to their local post office and have that post office trace the route the paper took. According to postal regulations, 2nd-class mail is supposed to be delivered in a speedy manner, second only to 1st-class mail.

We rarely have trouble with getting our paper to local subscribers, because—for the most part—we deliver the sacks of papers to the individual post offices. But when it comes to getting our papers to places such as Andover, or Rumford, or the Oxford Hills, or out-of-county, we're at the mercy of the postal system. The papers go to either Auburn (for zip codes beginning with 042) or Portland (for all other zip codes), and trying to track them from there seems impossible. You may recall last Thanksgiving when most of our subscription papers arrived two weeks late. I wrote a letter to the distribution center in Portland asking for an explanation of the problem. Not only didn't I receive an explanation, I didn't even receive the courtesy of an acknowledgment of my letter. (I know it was received because local postmaster Gayland Doon told me the head of the distribution center called him.)

Those of you who use UPS or Federal Express know how fast and relatively inexpensive a delivery system can be. I, for one, think it may be time to do what the President's commission on privatization the project and is not expected to render a decision until October, according to a spokesperson.)

Sen. Erwin said that having the Legislature vote on the matter before the state regulatory agencies had a chance to decide could be interpreted as trying to put pressure on those agencies. Sen. Erwin has declined to say whether or not he favors the CMP plan, saying he does not yet have enough information to make a decision on the merits of the proposal.

Prior to the vote in both houses, the measure passed the joint utilities committee by a 9-4 vote. Sen. Erwin, who sits on that committee, also voted against the measure at that time—again because he thought it was premature to bring it to a vote before the regulatory agencies had completed their action.

In the House, the pro-import forces also easily carried the day. The vote was 107-24. One of those who voted against the measure in the House was Gary Bickford (R-Jay). In a press release, Mr. Bickford said, "If we import power from a Hydro-Quebec project, we are moving away from independence and towards dependence on foreign energy sources."

The Maine Legislature spends a lot of time talking about developing Maine jobs for Maine people. By passing the Hydro-Quebec purchase proposal we are discouraging local, small-scale power development which would create jobs right here in Maine.

Mr. Bickford has announced his candidacy for the senate seat presently held by Mr. Erwin.

Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) also voted against the measure, saying it would give the wrong message to CMP.

has suggested we do—that is, turn the postal system over to private interests.

It was certainly a surprise last week to see Sen. Jesse Helms and Sen. Ted Kennedy taking the same side of an issue. Both want to see the government take stronger measures to bring down the government of Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega. It just shows that Democrats and Republicans can both be wrong at the same time.

What ever happened to the principle of self-determination of people? Why should Uncle Sam be the one to decide whether a government is the right government for a nation. Generally a people get the government they want, or the government they deserve. When they no longer can live with a particular government, they get rid of it, one way or another. They don't need the U.S. to decide for them.

Certainly the Reagan administration was happy enough with the Noriega regime as long as it thought he was a friend, as long as it thought he was providing us with intelligence on communists and drug barons in the region. There was no talk in those days—when he was on the CIA payroll—of Noriega being anything but a blessing for the Panamanian people.

Now, however, because the Reagan administration has been shown to have been duped by Noriega, Washington wants him out, and is making life miserable for the Panamanian people in order to convince them that the only way to stabilize their economy is by getting rid of Noriega.

It may well be that Noriega is involved with helping Colombian cocaine get to the U.S. and it may be true that he helped the Cubans, the Sandinistas and the rebels in El Salvador. While that makes him an embarrassment for us, it does not make him particularly unpopular with his own people. We should leave it to those people to decide who they would choose Noriega rather than a government installed by Washington.

The same principle of self-determination of people should also apply to Nicaragua. If the people there get tired of the Sandinista government, that government will lose support and eventually collapse. It does not require a U.S.-directed and supplied army of mercenaries to make changes in Nicaragua. As in Panama, the government in power may not be the government we would like to see in power, but it is not for us to decide. It is for the local people to decide on their rulers.

This week's issue of The Maine Times has an interesting article on the local Bread Loaf in the Schools writing program organized by Will and Marguerite Graham. The article offers examples of how the children go about doing their writing, and the sort of interaction that takes place between the young writers and their teachers as well as among the young writers themselves.

what to do to survive—so you have to be able to listen."

The lessons were not all painless: there was disagreement and frustration, caused in part by the unaccustomed tedium of bushwacking and breaking trail through deep snow for up to 12 hours a day, all the while carrying 50- to 60-pound packs.

At one unpromising twist in a long trail, "the girls in our group said, 'We're lost. Aren't we,'" Mike said. "They got pretty ugly."

"Every morning when we got up someone would be so frustrated they'd scream," Angie said.

Angie, Marybeth and Mike all acknowledged that at some points they had wanted to quit. And they suspected that everyone else had, too. But they kept going.

"It was all a matter of teamwork and a positive attitude," Marybeth said. "Without those you'd never make it."

And the first thing to do when you get home after four days of almost constant rain or drizzle? "A shower and pizza," Mike said.

"I hugged my mother and cried," Angie said. "Then I took a shower."

"I called my boyfriend friend," Marybeth said. "Then I took a shower."

Guided missile lands at Col. Dyke Field

Local pilots lounging about at Col. Dyke Field Saturday were startled to see what appeared to be a cruise missile land at the Northwest Bethel air strip.

One of the eyewitnesses said all he saw was a blur—like a flying silo—go by and then touch down on the muddy strip. Because of the weight of the contraption and the smallness of the wheels, it did not get far. Rather than rolling, its wheels went into the mud, causing the missile to go end-over-end down the runway.

By the time it came to a stop, the witnesses said, it was all in pieces. While no single piece was large enough to identify what sort of missile it was, the consensus was that it was probably a Tomahawk cruise missile that the Navy has been talking about testing over the mountains of western Maine.

The pilots, in order to clear the runway for use, gathered up the debris and took it to the landfill.

When the town manager heard of the unusual happening he was, of course, concerned. "We have no room at the landfill for more trash," he said.

The mystery of exactly what sort of missile it was deepened after a spokesman at the Naval Air Station, Brunswick, denied that the Navy had launched any missiles in the direction of Bethel. He said the Navy had still not made any final plans to test the missiles

Bethel's draft budget off to Budget Committee

The fiscal 1989 draft budget for the Town of Bethel goes to the town's Budget Committee next week, with the committee's first session April 5. In coming weeks the budgeters will devote five evenings to taking a close look at the budget and making changes as they see fit. The draft budget will then go back to the selectmen.

The Board of Selectmen finished their first series of budget sessions a week ago, adding an additional $5,000 to the draft presented them by the town manager. The $5,000 is for remodeling of the bookkeeper's office—the room currently shared with the selectmen. (The selectmen intend to have the vacant office remodeled for their use.)

The gross budget, when the selectmen finished making changes, stood at $975,548—or 21 percent above the current year's budget of $803,675.

the pond, in violation of permits granted. In addition to the fines, both developers were instructed—and agreed—to take remedial action to repair the work considered to be in violation of state guidelines. For the Yates/JAE project, located in the area of French Hill, the violations included filling, dredging, altering stream channels, installing road banks, road banks deeper than 2 horizontal to 1 vertical, roads constructed too close to streams, installation of undersized culverts, skidder crossing of a stream without a bridge or culvert, failure to notify LURC about timber harvesting, and failure to obtain necessary construction permits from LURC.

The LURC settlement agreement noted that Yates/JAE "responded promptly, appropriately and effectively," as soon as the violations were brought to their attention. According to the agreement, LURC will examine the remedial measures agreed to, and if these measures have not been effective, additional measures will be ordered.

In the case of the violations at the Zinchuk property on Song Pond, the violations involved clearing a beach area 40 feet in width instead of the allowed 10 feet, extending the beach area 22 feet inland of the high water mark, placing imported sand below the high water mark for the entire width of the beach, not building a retaining structure for containing the sand above the high water mark, and constructing a gravel road approximately 12-feet wide to the beach, instead of the 10-foot-wide foot path permitted.

In addition to the fine, which has already been paid, Mr. Zinchuk agreed to remove all sand below the high water mark, reduce the size of the beach area to the permitted 10 feet along the shoreline, construct a retaining structure to contain the sand, re-vegetate other cleared areas and convert the access road to a foot path no more than 10 feet in width.

LURC Commissioner Steve Wright, of Newry, said the fines and penalties imposed by LURC are part of a policy to let people know that development regulations will be enforced in the unorganized townships.

To the Editor:

I cannot think of an elegy worthy of David Thompson, even one written by the likes of Milton or Shelly or Tennyson. He was a remarkable teacher and true gentleman.

Bowdoin students making video on Newry

Five students from Bowdoin College are in the process of producing a documentary video on the subject of growth in the town of Newry. One of the students taking part in the project is Telstar graduate Marsha Moxey, of Newry.

The students were at the town office yesterday (Tuesday) interviewing town officials. The completed video will be shown on Channel 10 (WCBW), the students said.

Fire Chief Virgil Konkright told the selectmen the cost of outfitting the Jeep pickup as a small pumper would be $4,815—for a 200-gallon tank, pump and hoses. The selectmen authorized the purchase.

The Fire Department Committee will meet at the town office Monday, April 11, at 7 p.m., to discuss bids for a building for the budding fire department.

Final payment was received from federal and state coffers for flood relief to pay for civil damages incurred in last April's flood. The total amount received since the flood is $43,516.

Selectman Willard Wright briefed the other members of the board on the latest moves concerning finding an entity to pick up ambulance service after Keegan Ambulance ceases to exist. (The company has said it would shut down in April.) Rumford citizens will decide at Town Meeting April 11 whether they want their town to take over the ambulance service. The alternative, as proposed by the manager of the company, is for him to run it on behalf of the client towns. Representatives of the various towns will meet April 12 to decide how to proceed.

Jonathan Smith was in the town office to demonstrate to town officials the use of the town's newly purchased computer.

ideas to the students, but could give technical training. So, for example, Tim Kavanagh and Liz Smith taught this group some skills, but it was up to the group itself as to how to use the particular skills.

Other coaches were Linda Morgan, Linda Wheeler, Lorie Hoch and Walter Hatch.

Telstar Principal Ted Davis reported to the board on the recently completed sophomore field trip with Outward Bound. Mr. Davis said 53 sophomores started the trip and 53 returned. He said the trip into the wilderness provided a learning laboratory for group dynamics and made the participants feel good about themselves.

Mr. Davis said he was pleased that the trip earned Telstar statewide TV exposure thanks to a WCSH camera crew that filmed the students when they left and when they returned. The story was broadcast on the NBC affiliate's Portland and Bangor stations.

The principal thanked the board for having provided the opportunity for the sophomore class to make the trip.

Director Stan Howe, of Bethel, said the post-trip reports by the participants at an assembly attended by family and friends had resulted in some complaints. He said a number of people who attended the assembly had complained to him about the language used by the students in their reports. "Students should know the difference between good language and bad language," he said. "As a board member I'm quite concerned."

Director Merton Brown, of Bethel, confirmed Dr. Howe's information. "I heard some gasps," he said. "There were some grandparents there."

Mr. Davis said the lapses in language alluded to was probably a side-effect of the liberating influence of the experience. Nevertheless, he said, it was inappropriate.

In the business portion of the meeting, the board voted 12-0 (the Woodstock director) to approve George Gibbs and Linda Morgan as substitute teachers.

The board voted unanimously to appoint Ann Holt as Special Education Director, replacing Natalie Timberlake, who is retiring in August. In a related action, the board accepted the resignation of Ms. Holt as special education consulting teacher.

The board also accepted the resignation of Telstar English teacher Marilyn Ackley. Director Howe said it was a shame to lose her but he understood her reasons for leaving.

The board approved the selection of Marie Tanguay, of Bonny Eagle High School, as Special Ed. Composite Room teacher at Telstar.

The board agreed to post the following teacher vacancies for the 1988-89 school year: Woodstock Grade 2, CPS Grade 4, Andover Grade 4, Telstar English and Special Education Consulting teacher.

The board approved the following salary agreements for fiscal 1989:

Club Med-like resort planned on Androscoggin?

Who said Bethel's tourism boom was dependent only on skiing and golf?

The Citizen has learned that a Club Med-like resort company has started discussions with Warren ("Sonny") and Betty Ann Hastings to purchase their East Bethel pastureland that fronts on the Androscoggin River.

The resort company, which must remain unnamed until a contract has been signed, develops resorts for yuppies, providing upscale recreation in attractive and out-of-the-way locations.

One could hardly get more out-of-the-way than East Bethel, especially when the area in question is better known for its gentle bovines than for the athletic bodies that such a resort would attract.

One question that is likely to crop up is what sort of attire—or lack of attire—will be proper at the resort. These sort of places were first developed in France, and the lack of attire that is appropriate on the Mediterranean might draw stares in East Bethel.

Sonny Hastings says he could care less what the yuppies wear, or don't wear, as long as they don't scare his Holstein herd.

Reggie Brown, chairman of the Planning Board, said a site plan permit would be required since a resort would certainly be a change of use from a pasture. But, he said, there is nothing in the site plan review ordinance concerning nudity. The board would be most concerned with sufficient parking spaces, he said.

The Citizen attempted to contact the resort company at its New York headquarters but only received a recorded message.

Mr. Hastings, for his part, said discussions on selling off the parcel of pasture along the river began earlier this year. He said the next meeting with the resort officials is scheduled to take place April 1-April Fools Day.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The Bethel United Methodist Women met March 3 for their regular meeting. Plans are being made for a mission program Sept. 8. Invitation was accepted to meet with the West Parish Congregational ladies' fellowship March 23, at which time their bell choir performed and a lovely luncheon was served.

The Friday Gift Shop will open June 17. Edna York presented a St. Patrick's program. Each member told an Irish joke. Irish songs were performed by Julie York Panef and Betty Lou York Gingsas, Edna's daughters. Jewel Clark sang Irish songs accompanied by guitar. Hostesses Lyndell Carter and Ethel Ward served refreshments.

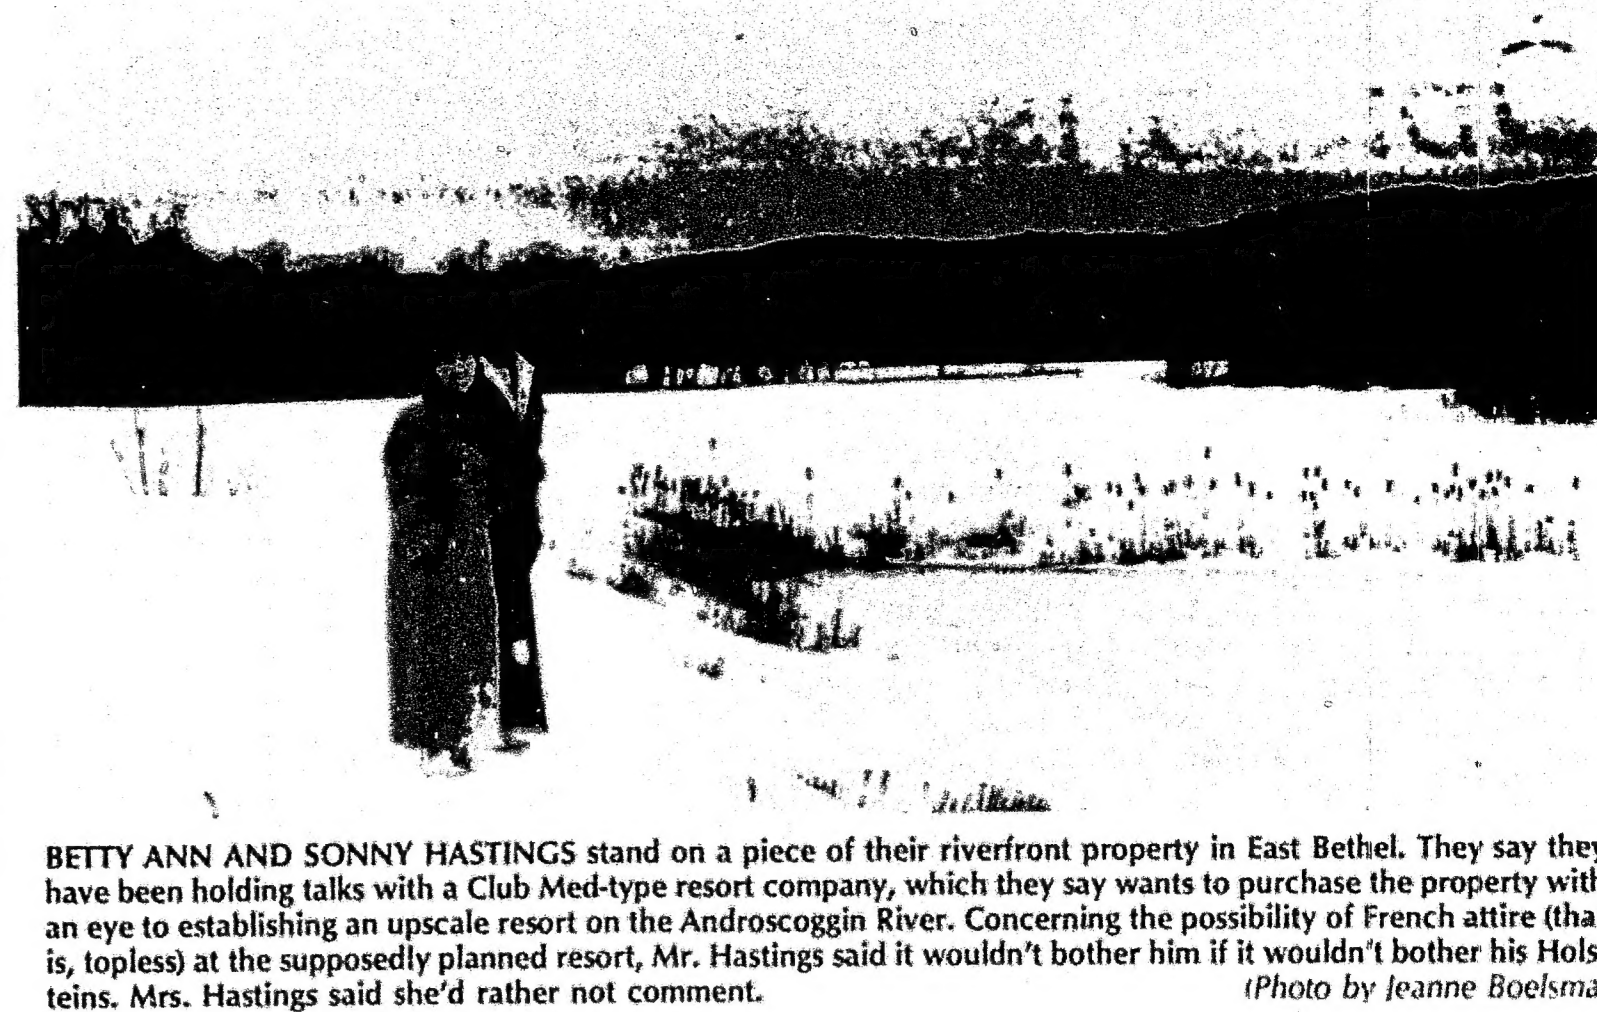

Plans are underway for a mother and daughter May Day dinner to be held May 1 at the Methodist Church and sponsored by UMW. All interested are invited to come and enjoy fellowship. For further information call Ginny Keniston.

The April meeting will be Thursday, April 7. Ruth Grover will present a program on grooming and use of scarfs. Bring scarfs to the meeting and learn how to use them.

BETTY ANN AND SONNY HASTINGS stand on a piece of their riverfront property in East Bethel. They say they have been holding talks with a Club Med-type resort company, which they say wants to purchase the property with an eye to establishing an upscale resort on the Androscoggin River. Concerning the possibility of French attire (that is, topless) at the supposedly planned resort, Mr. Hastings said it wouldn't bother him if it wouldn't bother his Holsteins. Mrs. Hastings said she'd rather not comment.

put in the kind of hours we put in, plus stay at home to answer a phone that rings constantly for $1,000 a year, you've got to be kidding."

Harry Faulkner supported the selectmen. "You've got to ask yourself if the critical decisions of the town are worth $6 an hour," he said. "It's unrealistic to stop these people from doing their job or to ask them to do it for nothing."

Voters then overwhelmingly defeated the salary-cap amendment.

In voting on two other financial articles, however, residents went along with the recommendations of the Budget Committee in opting to spend less money than proposed by the selectmen.

The Budget Committee had recommended that the town allocate $50,000 for winter roads; the selectmen recommended $60,000.

Budget Committee Chairman Bill Riley praised the work of the Highway Department but suggested there was "a certain amount of overwork on winter roads."

Voters concurred. Both the Budget Committee and the selectmen had recommended that $35,362.84 be spent on improvements to Rumford Ave.

Highway Foreman Percy Monk explained that the money would be used for water removal, culvert work, cutting trees, widening, ditching and other operations—so that, "people can maneuver by car, on foot, on a bicycle or with a baby carriage."

There was no opposition to the improvements, only questions about their impact on the sidewalks along Rumford Ave. Mr. Monk said the sidewalks would probably be eliminated.

Siding again with the Budget Committee rather than with the selectmen, voters denied a request from the Recreation Committee for $8,000 to be put toward building a fence around the ballfield.

Voters approved a request for an additional $20,000 to be put toward town office renovations.

Budget Committee Member Wendall Twitchell argued strongly against the article, citing the lack of an overall plan for the project and alleged energy inefficiencies in the work already done on the building.

Mr. Hooper responded with a lengthy description and defense of the selectmen's decisions on the project.

The article passed by a vote of 32 to 22. Voters also approved allocating $10,000 from the surplus account to purchase a computer and they approved without discussion raising $33,000 for operational expenses of the Greenstock transfer station.

Two articles dealing with the future of the former Woodstock School Complex were passed over without decisions being taken.

John Geraghty, chairman of the committee formed to study possible uses of the site, said the committee did not yet have enough information to make a recommendation for it.

Lack of specific information also led voters to reject an article calling for the town to raise money for sidewalks, another calling for the Lakeside Cemetery to be expanded to Grove Street, and a third setting fees for various types of hospitality businesses.

Voters also refused to discontinue the Granite Lodge Road and once again defeated an attempt to adopt the "Australian Ballot" form of voting for town officials.

The purchase of a quick attack pumper for the Fire Department and a truck with plow for the Highway Department passed easily.

The meeting, which began at 7 p.m., lasted until 1:10 a.m.

At 11:30 it was interrupted for nearly 15 minutes by a fire alarm apparently set off by surreptitious smoking. The ranks of voters were already thinning by that time, and a number of others left during the interruption.

However, more than 60 hardy voters remained to the end, and they concluded the meeting with round of applause for retiring Selectman Ethel Davis.

Kathleen Mersereau, whose contract as town manager the selectmen have voted not to renew, served as clerk for the meeting.

She responded to a number of questions concerning town accounts, but there was no discussion of the selectmen's decision not to renew her contract, or of their plans for hiring a new manager.

Those present were Peggy Lamb, Gorham; William and Wendy Willette, Gray; Ken Lamb and Little Kenny, Norway; Mike and Judy McLaughlin, Nina, Kelly and Kyra, and, of course, the hostess, Joyce Lamb. The birthday cake was made by daughter Wendy.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Doughty left on Thursday evening to visit their daughter, Cheryl Small and family in Hightstown, N.J., returning Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Inman's Albany Camp was the scene of much snowmobiling activity during the past weekend. Those enjoying the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Perham, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Inman, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Inman and the hosts, Milk and Eleanor.

Mrs. Sally Berry, Daniel and Ryan spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Davis, in Rochester, New York. Bill took them to Rutland, Vt., where they met her folks and he met them there for the return trip home.

The West Paris Historical Society met on Monday evening for a potluck supper and meeting, with 18 members present.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were heard and accepted. It was voted to have another work party on Saturday, April 9, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., with a potluck dinner at noon. If you don't come to paint or paper, come to dinner and see how nice the building is getting to look. We are planning to have a fundraising dance—hopefully with the Parisians and hopefully in August with a supper preceding. More plans and details on that later. The next meeting of the Society will be on Monday, April 18, with Everett and Dede Chase on the supper committee. After the meeting, old pictures were circulated, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cummings, former residents of our town.

The Firemen's Auxiliary will meet on Monday, April 4, at which time they will entertain the local firemen and the Greenwood Fire Department and Auxiliary. There will be a 6:30 supper followed by a slide presentation by Dave Karkos. The public is invited to attend the slide show for a small donation.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sanborn, North Conway, N.H., on the birth of a son, Charles Brant, born March 23. Mrs. Sanborn is the former Vicky Inman. Brant weighed in at 9 lbs. 2 oz.

The next Society meeting will be on woodworking. It will be at the museum.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

In his "History of Woodstock" William Berry Lapham makes an observation on Woodstock voters that could very well apply today—"The voters here have decided convictions, and such men cannot be easily influenced to vote differently from what they think—there is not the least doubt about their voting as they believed, and they are men who can give a reason for their faith and acts."

The next Society meeting will be on woodworking. It will be at the museum.

Deer-watching at the former Trask's Orchards from 4:30 p.m. till dark. It's a good sport, but it isn't as good as shooting them. Twenty were counted several times this week.

Evelyn Chamberlain is working at Penley Corp. for a few weeks.

Miss Julie Oja is practice teaching at Fultonville, N.Y., right outside of Albany.

North Paris Federated and the West Paris Baptist Ladies gave a baby shower to Mrs. Gail Haslett, the pastor's wife, at the West Paris Baptist Church, on March 19 at 10 a.m., followed by a luncheon. Everyone had an enjoyable time. Many gifts were received.

Most all roads led to Locke Mills, March 19, for the 50th Wedding Anniversary party for Elden and Barbara Hathaway. An enjoyable evening with a program, music and dancing.

Harlan and Faye Abbott enjoyed a weekend snowmobiling even if it did snow Sunday.

West Paris is having a dance April 2. Felt's Band, prizes and pies. Let's dance.

Callers at Lawrence's: Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Stanley Heath and Joe Vatcher, the wood boy.

Our nephew, Stevie Millett, went with Charlie Coffin to California with a load. It's a good way to see the country.

Stephens offers lessons in how to quit smoking

The Health Education Department of Stephens Memorial Hospital will present five free introductory sessions of the Stop Smoking Clinic. Three sessions will be held in the SMH Health Education Classroom Wednesday, April 6, at 12 noon and 7 p.m. These first, free, no obligation sessions will be an informative one-hour overview of the Stop Smoking Clinic's program.

The Stop Smoking Clinic is a non-profit community service to help people succeed in quitting smoking permanently. This program is offered and endorsed by over 35 hospitals in New England. The month-long program, which meets twice weekly, is taught by highly trained former smokers who quit smoking through the program. The program uses group and individualized methods to help each participant overcome his or her smoking habit.

The program is unique in many ways. It enjoys a long-term success rate which is double that of programs once recommended by national health experts. The Stop Smoking Clinic also offers a "Helpline" to each participant and graduate, providing constant support for their new smoke-free lives.

The Stop Smoking Clinic is proud of the fact that since beginning the program, thousands of smokers have learned to break the habit.

For more information please call 743-5833, Ext. 471.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Dr. Allen W. Weeks thanks the Osteopathic Hospital and staff, Stephens Memorial Hospital and staff and Ledgewick Memorial Home and staff for special and dedicated care during his lengthy illness. Special thanks to Dr. Richard Levesque, Dr. William Leschey, Dr. James Eshleman, Dr. Robert Story, Jr., Dr. William Medd and Dr. Hugh Robinson. Special thanks to members and friends of St. Catherine's of Sienna Catholic Church for prayers, services and special Masses in honor of our loved one. To his former patients and friends who took the time to pray, send a card, or visit him bringing gifts, God Bless You. To his K of C brothers, your many acts of kindness will never be forgotten and whether Honorary or Active Bearers thank you for your service. To those who took time and gave donations to his favorite charities: the Arthritis Foundation, Heart Association, Cancer Foundation or Parkinson Foundation, it was a tidy sum and greatly appreciated. The floral tributes, whether at his room, home or service were beautiful. To J.W. Raymond and Son for your kindness, special thoughtfulness and caring for our needs, we thank you. To neighbors, family and friends who ran errands, donated time and services, we thank you. Thank you to Rev. Donald McAllister for his services and friendship, but especially our grateful appreciation to Rev. Albert B. Colpitts for daily hospital visits, weekly visits at the nursing home and special services to us in between, your prayers, comfort and guidance made many days brighter for your visits. Whatever you did, wherever you were, you made our burdens lighter. God Bless You All.

The Ladies Circle will meet April 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Olive Anderson. A Memory Platter will be featured. Members are asked to save coffee cans for the May Cookie Sale.

Good Friday Services will be held at the Methodist Church, Bethel, March 27, at 7 p.m. The title of Pastor Hanscom's message at the Newry Community Church, March 20, was "Conditional Promise," with Scripture readings from St. John 11:14-46.

Sunrise Services will be held at the home of Owen and Sue Wight, Easter Sunday, at 7 a.m., followed by a potluck breakfast. Services will be held at the church at 9 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Hanscom, Jay, Adam and Eric were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hanscom and Nan-March 23.

Anyone having empty coffee cans for the Ladies Circle Cookie sale may call Olive Anderson at 824-2972 and she will pick them up.

Thelma Lowery, Eleanor Davis, Betsy Clark, Beatrice Lowell and guest were at Oxford Lanes bowling March 23. Thelma Lowery was high scorer for triple string, and she and Betsy Clark tied for single.

GUIDANCE DIRECTOR ATTENDS CONVENTION

Daniel Hart, guidance director at Teistar Regional High School, joined more than 5,000 counseling and human development specialists from across the nation in Chicago March 20-23 at the 1988 convention of the American Association for Counseling and Development.

Mr. Hart participated in skill-building workshops and learning programs focusing on the most up-to-date issues and techniques in the field of counseling and human development.

The theme of this year's convention was "Human Responsibility: Facing the Challenge." Helping AACD to celebrate that theme, as a keynote speaker, was trusted advice columnist Ann Landers.

AACD is a private, non-profit organization providing leadership training, continuing education opportunities and advocacy services for its members.

Bowie, Olive Anderson, Jim Anderson, Freda Robertson, Sylvia Wight and Gilberte Seeley, have completed the Pentateuch (the story of the first five books of the Old Testament). The group found this very helpful in understanding the present conflict that is going on in that part of the world. James Anderson has brought his tape recorder and tapes of the Old Testament, which helped very much in the study. The group, which meets at Sue Wight's Monday mornings at 10 a.m., will now study the Book of Psalms.

Several attended Elden and Barbara Hathaway's 50th Anniversary at the Locke Mills Town Hall, Saturday night. A big crowd attended; 240 were reported.

We attended Franklin Grange Monday night. It was Agriculture Night. The committee put on a good program. The Deputies, Louis and Myrtle Bisbee, were present at this meeting.

Spring is on its way so they say, but we had March winds with us for the last few days. My thermometers ranged from 22 degrees below to 22 above. I wonder how cold it really was. The 22 degrees below was the wind chill as they stated on TV, so I guess my one on the north must be measuring wind chill.

Esther Davis has been under the weather the past week. She is some better at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews were over Thursday to see me. Arthur did several odd chores while here. Mark Andrews dropped in in the afternoon with his new white car. I was glad to see them all.

Friday night the coon got into the trap at last. He was in poor condition. One ear was gone. His eye had been injured. His head was bloody and fur had been pulled out some on his back. I called Mr. Records who came up and took him away in his trap.

"Hearts in Tune" performs music for all ages to enjoy, and the sponsors encourage you to attend and experience an evening of songs and fun.

It never rains till it pours, so now the lovely skunks have taken over. I never had them in the building before. They may not be in here now, but it is quite strong.

By VIVA WHITMAN

Rather a dull, cloudy morning as I sit down to do this typing. At least the weather has warmed up so it doesn't feel so cold and miserable. Makes one think of spring more than a couple of days ago when it was below zero. Sure started spring off with some cold weather just to make us realize it could come back again before we get the real warm weather of spring and summer. I wasn't too surprised and don't expect others were, either.

Last Thursday when I was going to see Dr. Shedd, in North Bridgton, Russell went out to the mail box to put letters out and came back with the news that I had a flat tire. It was a little over an hour till I had to leave so thought I would call for AAA to come to help as we were both feeling rather lousy. All I could get was a busy signal, so finally Russell and I went out and changed the tire ourselves. Somehow I had picked up a screw in the tire and it was still there. Took it to the garage on my way to the doctor's and got it back on the way home. Drove to West Paris to get my daughter-in-law to drive me to North Bridgton. Got treated and then home again.

Didn't feel too great, but drove to town on Friday so Russell and I could get our groceries and do a few errands that needed doing. We have both been coughing a lot and trying to get over this bug that likes to cling so tightly. Thank God Russell's cough has stayed loose and he has been able to get rid of lots of mucus and still is. I do the same and now my cold seems to be loose. It was so tight in my chest and hurt in my lung for so long I wondered if I would ever get over it. It hasn't gone just yet but is better and that is a help.

We had a phone call from Peggy on Saturday to let us know that she had a lovely flight to Florida and was wishing she had taken a couple of sweatshirts as they plan to go camping this week and it had been rather cool down there. Only in the 50s the day she went down. Not much better than here. Russell asked her if she was homesick and she just wouldn't answer. Hope she is having a grand time.

We were rather lazy on Sunday and didn't do much. I read until my eyes wouldn't let me read any more. After a while, my eyes blur so things don't look right and I can't see the print to read. Don't know why that has to happen as I love to read. Just one of those things that happen in the "golden years." Too many things happen in those years and as someone said one day, "I don't know what is so golden about them." Too many troubles hit too many people so they can't enjoy those golden years.

Monday morning I called the chiropractor to see if he could give me a workover on my back and neck as they were out of adjustment and bothering terribly. Got the appointment and went down to see him. After the adjustment I went to Newberry's to do a little shopping before coming home. Russell and I were playing cards in the evening when Chris Tripp came with Avon books for me to look at, and that took time but I do like to see what there is to see and sometimes order something toward next Christmas. The only way to get gifts is ahead of time.

Got some sewing done on Tuesday and more yesterday. Have things in the making for my granddaughters for their birthdays in May. Can't afford to buy lots of things for them and had cloth on hand that I got at a bargain price so will use that to make things for their birthdays. I'm sure the clothes that I make will last better than boughten clothes do. None is always coming up to use my sewing machine to sew up seams that have ripped out.

Peggy has shown me how to carry the yarn to make patterns in knitting so am putting that knowledge to use and have made a sweater for Courtney for next Christmas with hearts on it and now have a sweater most half-done for Kariann that has diamonds on it.

At one time it bothered me to knit so put my knitting needles in a yard sale. Now I seem to be able to knit and not have it bother anymore than crocheting does and am having to buy needles for knitting. Shows how foolish it is to get rid of things sometimes! Seems as though you always want them after you have gotten rid of them.

West Paris Grange had a good meeting a week ago with 70 people attending. It was an open meeting with lots of visitors as well as many members attending. I was told that the program was real good and folks enjoyed themselves very much. The next meeting will be Past Lecturers night with folks from other Granges holding some of the offices. I'm sure there will be a good program for all to enjoy, also. The Grange at West Paris will be having a dance for all to enjoy on April 2, so come for a good time.

Erlon Whitman had to go to the hospital for treatment but came home a week ago and is doing fine, as far as we know at this time.

Franklin Grange #124 met on Monday, March 21 at the Grange Hall, with 26 members present. Deputies Louis and Myrtle Bisbee were present. The charter was draped for Marguerite Spinney. Resolutions of respect were read for Lizzie Russ. The dates of the three point meetings are as follows. Oxford Grange on April 15, Franklin Grange, May 2, and Mt. Sugarloaf Grange, June 15. April 4 will be CWA night. April 18 will be open to the public with Community Awards presented. The apple muffin contest was won by Charlotte Cole. The program was as follows—Song by all "I'm looking over a four leaf clover"; Myrtle Bisbee gave the Chaplain's Charge; Bertha Benoit sang a song; Reading by Paul Billings "So God made the farmer"; Dot Conwell whistled a couple songs; Lucy Robbins read about Ceres; Harry Boyer sang a couple of songs; Myrtle and Louis Bisbee spoke; potato guessing game by Carl Brooks; Closing song and closing thought.

Kaye Glines and Jolyn Danbury, N.H., spent the weekend with her mother. Looking ahead, at the Baptist Church the Good Friday service will be held at Pleasant Valley Bible Church and Easter Sunrise Service will be at the Bethel Gospel Center.

The Universalist Church of Bryant Pond will serve an Easter coffee at 8 a.m. on Easter morning. On the committee are Annie Crockett, Kathleen McAllister and Noreen Russo. The Easter worship service will begin at 9 a.m.

When clouds so maybe it will be a good day after all. I sure hope so as I would like to get out into the sunshine if the temperature is warm enough. I haven't dared to go out in the wind as my lungs have bothered so much, but maybe I can soon and will be myself again.

I keep busy knitting and sewing along with other projects so time doesn't hang heavy on my hands. Read what I can and have put several puzzles together while not feeling up to par. Have to while away the time the best way I can and hope others find a way to do the same thing. Take care folks and have a good week ahead.

West Greenwood

By CAROLYN COLBY

Vicki Wilson, Portland, visited Irene Wilson, Tuesday afternoon. Irene's not sure if the swallows are back to Capistrano, but the robins are back to West Greenwood and are just as welcome.

Recently a bear was heard hollering during the evening near Irene's, and his tracks were seen the next day. Isn't this early for animals to come out of hibernation? My opinion is the longer they sleep the better. I would not be tempted, like one man was, to reach down into a brush pile to wake up a bear that he knew was there. No, No, No.

It was a big surprise for Ray, Janice and Patrick when Robbie and Kathy Harrington arrived Saturday from Atlanta, Ga., to spend a week. Rhea Gibbs and her mother, Jennie Valanti of Mass., visited Muriel Gilbert Saturday afternoon.

After shopping in Oxford, Brian and I visited my brother and his family in Norway on Saturday. I had told him I would see him in the spring and Saturday was the day before spring.

Karen and Larry Hill, Jayson, Amy-Lynn and Crystal, of West Paris, visited us Friday evening.

The ice imposes a total calm on the pond this morning. No wind can mix oxygen into the water, as it does in spring, summer and fall. But the sound of water running down brooks shows an ample inflow. Without oxygen, decomposition would use up the other seasons' supply and the result would be winter-kill. But the fish survive, for day after day there are fishermen out there drilling their holes and setting their fish traps.

When men used to cut ice for storage, the holes they made showed three to five inches of "milk ice" on top; the rest was "black ice"—clear, through which one could see the bottom of the pond. I used to watch the men harvest the ice and store it carefully in icehouses, then cover it with sawdust. It was hard work, as my sister-in-law and I found out at times, when we wished to make ice cream. We struggled to get a cake of ice out, washed it, put it into a bag, then took turns pounding it until it was fine enough to pack with rock salt around the prepared cream-mix. When we finished churning, it was worth the effort which we had put into it. We would sit on the porch on a hot summer day, where the men—tired from a day in the field—joined us for a real treat.

The ice on the pond in February booms and cracks and pierces the vast stillness. Some years in March, clear water gleams around the edges. In other years not until April. On cold nights the edges freeze again. But in the sunlight the next day, the ice retreats even farther than before. Then there comes a day when the ice breaks up, and I watch to see it move ever so slowly through the channel.

The wind recharges the oxygen-starved winter pond. The surface is animated with fragments of sunshine, and a sense of gaiety lights the surface. Shore growth glimmers again in the silky sunlight and the animals of the pond return.

By June the surface is verdant with weeds and algae on which the animals depend.

Katie Tamminen was hostess to the Tuesday Club on March 15. Anna Jarvenpaa was ill and unable to attend. Rona Curtis was in Portland, Thursday, to be with her sister, Ruth Collins, who had surgery that day.

Dorothy Betts and I were with several teachers for lunch on Wednesday, then spent the afternoon with Lettie Brooks at her home in West Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Tamminen attended the Grange in West Paris for the celebration of its 100th Anniversary last week.

Ernest Mundt, Bethel, was a recent caller at my home.

I attended the meeting of the Retired Teachers in South Paris on Saturday. Ann Holt, Bethel, was at the home of her parents on Sunday.

Fred Curtis was in Lewiston on Monday to see his doctor.

Stephen and Kim Cogswell and two children were visitors at their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, recently. Ray and Gloria Curtis, Norway, were also callers.

Dorothy Curtis had several callers from town and Mildred Bowman, Hebron, and Pearl Pitts, South Paris.

Fred and Rona Curtis were in Freeport one day to see their new great-granddaughter. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Gower.

SAD #44 students exchanging art with children in Honduras

Elementary school students in SAD #44's Creative and Talented Program are learning about their counterparts in Honduras by swapping personal works of art.

The "Honduras Art Exchange" began when the students of the Elementary Creative and Talented Program had the opportunity to see the slides of the Witness for Peace trip to Nicaragua and Honduras made by Marguerite Graham and Brendon Bass last summer.

Wanting to foster greater world awareness, SAD #44 Creative and Talented Program teacher Arla Patch helped her students explore ways they might build on the information they had received from the slides. One of the people Mrs. Graham and Rev. Bass met on their trip was Fr. Dennis Leder, an American priest working in a refugee camp in Honduras. He has been using art in his work with the children there. It was decided that an "art exchange" could help both groups of children.

As Ms. Patch explained: "Our children would make pictures about their lives in Maine and send them to the children in Honduras, and they would send their pictures back to us. This would transcend the language barrier and teach us a lot about each other's lives."

Ms. Patch contacted Fr. Dennis and he was delighted to participate in the project.

Justin Hutchins, a student in Andover, pointed out that it wouldn't be fair to ask the Honduran children to send us works of art without giving them the art supplies to make them. This launched a fund-raising campaign that has accumulated $100.11 to date. The art supplies turned out to be a wonderful idea as Fr. Dennis explained that obtaining paper and paint is very difficult in his part of Honduras.

The students in the Creative and Talented Program in Grades 3-6 in Andover, Bethel and Woodstock are participating in the "art exchange." Each of their paintings and drawings will be on display in the windows of the Bethel Town Office from April 6-13. They will be sent to Colomacagua Refugee Camp in Honduras immediately following this exhibit. "We will anxiously await the art work from the children in Honduras and hope to share that with the community as well," Ms. Patch promised.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY GETS CEMETERY INSCRIPTIONS

Dr. Stanley R. Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society, announced this week that the society has now added copies of microfilm of the records of the Maine Old Cemetery Association Inscription Project (MIP) to the holdings in its Eva Bean Research Room.

These records, on 16 reels, represent over 25,000 pages of cemetery inscriptions from throughout Maine. Begun in the early 1970s, the MIP records were, until recently, available only in a series of large bound volumes at either the Hampden Historical Society or the Maine State Library. The Bethel Historical Society is now one of nine cities in Maine that provides these invaluable historical resources for research. The acquisition by the Bethel Society was made possible through the generosity of an anonymous donor.

Organized by town and cemetery and catalogued in two accompanying index volumes, these records are the most recent addition of the Bethel Historical Society's growing genealogical holdings. These holdings include over 2,000 volumes of family and town history, in addition to a rich collection of pamphlets, diaries, journals, photographs, maps, atlases, scrapbooks, letters, news clippings, newspapers, and census records. While strongly oriented toward the Bethel area, western Maine and the White Mountain region, these resources also include material on other New England states and eastern Canada.

"This addition to our collection will be of considerable help to genealogists," said Randall H. Bennett, Society curator of collections. "Increasingly the Society will fill a major role for those doing family research as well as other research in western Maine," he added.

Founded in 1968, the 800-member Bethel Historical Society maintains its headquarters in the 1913 Dr. Moses Mason House and supports a full schedule of programs for adults and students as well as publications, exhibits and special events. Anyone wishing further information should direct inquiries to the Society, at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine, 04217 or 207-824-2908.

Bryant Pond Girl Scouts visit museum in Boston

The Junior Girl Scout troop of Bryant Pond recently returned from an overnight trip to Boston to visit the Boston Museum of Science. The group camped out under the stars.

The program, sponsored by the Museum of Science staff, is specifically designed to encourage girls to feel comfortable with careers in science. Fourteen 4th, 5th and 6th-graders from Woodstock, accompanied by three adults, traveled by van to Boston for the camp-out at the museum. Each troop was given a location on the floor to spread out sleeping bags.

The museum sponsored several workshops for the scouts during the 24 hours in the museum. The theme was light and optics. Some of the special events included a 3-D contact science lesson on scientific reasoning, a laser optics workshop, a hands-on light and prism workshop, a movie "The Grand Canyon" projected on a 360-degree screen, and a lighting show with the world's largest Van de Graaff generator. In addition, the girls enjoyed the museum in small groups during their free time.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Historical Society will meet Wednesday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m., at their building on Main Street.

The Greenwood Fire Department will hold its regular meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5, at the fire station.

We were sorry to hear Margaret Mills lost a great-aunt recently. She and Blaine traveled to Blue Hill to attend the funeral and also visited Margaret Oakes at a nursing home in Augusta on the way.

Lillian and Wilfred Noyes were expected home this week after spending the winter in Filbin, La.

Craig and Sandy Nash came from Dixfield Sunday morning and picked up Mr. and Mrs. John Mills and took them to church in Mexico and then brought them home. In the afternoon, Gerry Shimamura picked them up and they went with her to attend David Thompson's memorial service in Bethel and later attended a gospel concert at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene put on by Thylene Picham from the Farmington Falls church.

Would like to correct a name from last week's Historical Society news: Betty Prince was the donor of the yarn goods. Also, would like to credit Jim Rowe with donating the child's lawn chair; I did not get his name last week.

Lorraine Mills accompanied Gerry Shimamura to Norway, Monday, and they stopped in to see Gerry's mother, Thelma Merrill, at Ledgewick on the way home. Lorraine and John also accompanied Gerry to the Wednesday night services at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene. Following the services they attended a get-together honoring Pastor John Clayton on the occasion of his birthday, Tuesday.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary made nearly $200 on the town meeting dinner this year. At least half will go into the fire relief fund to benefit fire victims. The remainder goes into the general fund which supplies the needs of the auxiliary and towards helping the Fire Department with special purchases.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Bennett had as house guests over the weekend: Mr. and Mrs. James K. Bennett, Leslie and Jason, from Northfield, Vt., and Dr. and Mrs. Dean B. Bennett from Mt. Vernon.

QUILTERS CHANGE SCHEDULE

Cross Country Quilters have changed the meeting times, beginning in April, to the second and fourth Wednesdays, at 7 p.m., at the Bethel Public Library.

Easter egg hunt

in Andover Saturday

There will be an Easter egg hunt in Andover Saturday, April 2, at 9 a.m. in front of Mills Market, Main Street. All Andover youngsters from pre-school through Grade 7 are invited to participate.

The Bank of Boston donated tickets to the New England Aquarium, and following their stay at the museum the girls went to the aquarium, where they saw the dolphin show. The touch tank was the favorite exhibit, allowing the girls to actually feel some of the ocean shellfish. Money for the trip was raised by the girls with a bottle drive and food sale last fall and the cookie drive this spring.

World Health Day to be celebrated at Telstar next Thursday

Telstar Regional High School will be joining the rest of the nation and 164 other countries around the world in celebrating "World Health Day," next Thursday, April 7, with an all-day Health Fair.

World Health Day, celebrated every April 7, calls attention to the importance of health in our lives and to what we can do to maintain that health.

World Health Day 1988 is the 40th anniversary of the World Health Organization (WHO) and will focus on the theme "Health for all by the year 2000."

In addition, WHO has established a special program on AIDS (SPA) to provide worldwide leadership and international collaboration in the fight against AIDS.

World Health Day is a commitment to the future—to a brighter tomorrow—based on the goal of health for all. These events can provide each person with the opportunity to examine his/her lifestyle practices and to gain a better understanding of health issues.

A complete schedule is being distributed to all 6-12-graders and their parents. The community is invited to participate in any or all of the day's activities.

Maine. On Saturday evening they all attended the 50th wedding anniversary party for Elden and Barbara Hathaway at the Town Hall. On Sunday they all joined a family gathering where they had dinner at the home of Barbara and Elden Hathaway at Bryant Pond.

If anyone makes things out of pine cones we have two trees that unloaded on us. You are welcome to all you can use.

Ralph Mills celebrated his 32nd birthday Sunday at his home in Colchester, Vt. He planned to have a few friends in for a pizza bash.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be held Thursday, April 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Featured during the program portion of the meeting will be a slide presentation on the history of Elm, Summer and Winter streets, by Geraldine S. Howe. These streets have been among the most changed of all Bethel avenues through the years. Come and learn of the people and buildings that have made this portion of Bethel unique from the late-19th century to the present. If you have photographs, anecdotes and/or memories to share, please bring them for all to enjoy.

This program represents another step in the Society's attempt to systematically document the history of the entire town. Much progress has been made, but future efforts should be made in such areas as West Bethel's Flat Road, as well as Grover Hill, Northwest and North Bethel, Vernon Street and Paradise. Anyone interested in contributing information on any of the above is cordially invited to notify the Society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, or call the Society office, at 824-2968.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe discussed mills and manufacturing with Miss Newcomb's 5th Grade social studies class last week. During his presentation, Dr. Howe outlined the types and location of mills in Bethel. He also discussed many of the products that have been produced in Bethel through the years, from sleighs to salt boxes.

The latest issue of the Society's "Courier" is now out and features an expanded selection from the memoirs of Bethel businessman L.E. Davis as well as Society news and comments from readers. Anyone wishing a complimentary copy should contact the Society office.

Mills seeks re-election

State Rep. Jeffery Mills (D-Bethel) this week announced his candidacy for re-election to the Maine House of Representatives from District 49.

Mr. Mills is completing his third term in the Legislature, having been first elected in a 1983 special election and re-elected in 1984 and 1986 with 60 percent vote total margins.

Mr. Mills is a member of the Transportation Committee and has served on the Audit and Program Review Committee as well as the Nuclear Waste Siting Commission.

In announcing his bid for re-election, Mr. Mills emphasized that he intends to continue his work on behalf of the residents of District 49, which includes the towns of Avon, Bethel, Byron, Gilead, Hanover, Lovell, Newry, Rangeley, Upton, Waterville, and the plantations of Albany and Mason, and the plantations of Rangeley, Lincoln, Magalloway and Sandy River. Mr. Mills said, "I find the job of serving the people of District 49 to be a tremendous challenge and an honor, and I hope to have the confidence of the voters again this fall. Continuing to respond to constituent concerns and working to improve our roads will remain my top priorities."

A graduate of the University of Maine, Mr. Mills is employed by Penley and Mills, of Bryant Pond.

Parenting class offered eight Saturday mornings

Parents of young children in the SAD #44 area will have the opportunity to participate in a nationally acclaimed program of communication and skills training to assist them in becoming more effective as parents.

A morning session of STEP (Systematic Training for Effective Parenting) will begin at the Casco Bank in Bethel on April 8, to run eight weeks, from 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. Lorrie Hoeh, of West Bethel, who has many years of experience with the STEP program will be the facilitator. Mrs. Hoeh recently conducted a successful session of STEP-Teen for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education.

Cathy Newell, director of Adult and Community Education for SAD #44, has received information from the American Guidance Service, publishers of materials for the various STEP programs, announcing the results of research conducted by the Pennsylvania Department of Education over two years (1985 and 1986). The results show significant gains in reading and math scores by children whose parents participated in STEP programs. Gains were particularly significant in the Grades 4, 5 and 6 years. The study concluded that participation by parents of Chapter I students resulted in "better parent/child relationships which have enhanced student attitudes toward school, and, in turn, advanced student achievement."

To enroll in the Friday morning STEP program, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780. The fee for the course is $15 per family, which includes the book.

Mrs. Newell said scholarship funds are available and the office will assist with child care arrangements, if needed. Adult Education will schedule STEP sessions during the evening and in other locations throughout SAD #44 if there is interest. "We are extremely lucky to have the services of Mrs. Hoeh, who is deeply committed to parenting education and is willing to arrange her schedule to meet community needs. I would encourage parents who would like to have STEP scheduled in their town to recruit other parents, and contact the office so that a class can be started," Mrs. Newell said.

Ledgewick gets piano

For the past year-and-a-half, the residents of Ledgewick Memorial Home, in West Paris, have been cooking for food sales, making crafts for craft sales, holding rummage sales, saving pennies and all sorts of things to raise money to buy a new piano for the activity room. On March 16, it arrived, just in time for the St. Patrick's Day program that was put on by Yates Christian Music Service and Friends.

The residents enjoyed listening to their rebuilt Steinway as well as arrangements on the synthesizer and the harp, and vocal numbers by Patti and John Yates, Cathy Hoy and Kathy Burke. That evening the residents also surprised Patti Thurlow—who has worked in the Dietary Department since Ledgewick opened in 1971—with a card, small gift and a Shamrock cake made by Patti Yates. Patti and St. Patrick share the same birthday.

Since St. Patrick's Day party, the residents have been able to enjoy music on the piano by Pam Benson, of Woodstock, Norman and Olga Gallantly, from West Paris, Mildred Sturtevant, from South Paris, Eleanor Damon, from Poland, and Rose Hollidinsky, from Norway, and the residents are looking forward to many more.

Albany residents' group nominates local officials

The Albany Improvement Association met recently at the Albany Congregational Church for its monthly business meeting, with 11 members present.

Nominations for officers and directors were taken. Tim Kavanagh was nominated for president, Patricia Parent was nominated for vice president and Roberta White was nominated to continue as secretary/treasurer. Others nominated for directors were David Salway, Mike Inman, Terry Perry and Carlton Rugg. Nominations are still open and can be continued at next month's meeting.

The question was raised if the problems facing the Land Use Regulation Commission would affect the watchdog-type committee recently formed. The LURC commission, which oversees construction, development and other environmental concerns in unorganized territories, has recently had several commissioners resign, leaving LURC critically understaffed. David Salway, who was chosen in January to receive materials from LURC concerning building permit requests and other material, said he has heard nothing as to what effect this crisis would have on the committee or the unorganized townships.

Repairs to the Town Hall were discussed. The building was damaged by a fire last fall when the wood stove overheated and burned through the floor. Member Terry Howard and Roberta White expressed concern over allowing groups to stay overnight in the Town Hall. An Outward Bound group was sleeping there when the fire occurred. We were lucky no one was hurt during the fire. "There's no fire insurance on the hall, and no smoke alarms there," explained Terry Howard. She said since the hall is unusable, the local 4-H Club has had to meet in Roberta White's home.

Another concern is getting the hall ready for the upcoming June primaries, when citizens of the township will be voting in the building. Several of the members are going to try to meet to look over the hall and decide what type of repairs are needed.

In another matter, landowner Rodney Kimball suggested that the by-laws of the association be amended so that non-resident landowners would be allowed to vote. Several township residents expressed concern over such a proposal, because they said it would leave them with no more say in their town than part-time residents and vacationers. The association meetings are open to non-voting and voting citizens concerned with the happenings within Albany. Everyone's suggestions and opinions are welcomed.

The next meeting will be held on April 11 when election of officers and directors will be held. After the election, the board will vote on several new members who wish to join the Improvement Association. April 11 is also the date on which annual dues of $5 are due, so members please remember your dues. These funds are important to the non-profit organization.

The next meeting will be 7 p.m. at the Albany Church at Hunt's Corner on April 11. All members are urged to attend.

HOLY WEEK OBSERVANCES AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

On Maundy Thursday, March 31, a Seder meal and a Tenebrae service will be held at the West Parish Congregational Church, beginning at 6 p.m.

The Seder is a traditional Jewish feast celebrating the Passover. Participants at this local observance will follow an adaptation of that tradition that incorporates Jesus' last meal with his disciples.

Following the Seder, at about 7:15 p.m., worshippers will gather in the church's sanctuary for a Tenebrae service. During this service, darkness and scriptures describing Jesus' and the disciples' moments in Gethsemane will focus the thoughts of those who attend.

On Easter Sunday, April 3, a pancake breakfast will be served 7-8:30 a.m. at the church by its Pilgrim Fellowship. Donations will be accepted toward this high school group's mission and educational activities. The breakfast is timed to follow the Sunrise Service to be held at the top of Paradise Road, sponsored by the Bethel Area Clergy Association. The public is invited to all these events. For further information please call 824-2653 or 824-2689.

Peace walkers will be in Bethel area April 22-24

From May 31 to June 26, the United Nations will hold the Third Special Session on Disarmament. To rally support for this effort towards world peace, 15 to 25 persons will be walking from Bangor to New York by way of Montpelier, Vt., Portsmouth, N.H., Boston, Mass., and Hartford, Conn. They will pass through the Bethel area April 22, 23 and 24.

Organizers of this "Walk for World Peace" believe it will offer people of all faiths a chance to witness to their dedication to a world free from weapons and violence. The walkers will depend on local communities for food and shelter (they are carrying sleeping bags), and they invite local residents to walk with them for an hour, a day or longer. The organizers of this peace pilgrimage believe that walking and talking together, giving and receiving hospitality, will open people's hearts and minds to realize that people can live together in harmony without armaments.

Leaving Bangor on April 16, the walkers expect to reach Newry on Friday, April 22, and Gilead on Saturday, April 23. On Sunday, April 24, they will enjoy a day of rest. If you are willing to help with food, shelter or transportation during this time for any number of people, please contact Brendon Bass, 824-2653.

The "Walk for World Peace" is endorsed by the Coalition to Support the United Nations SSD-III, which includes the American Baptist Churches USA Program, the United Church of Christ, the Unitarian Universalist U.N. Office, the Gray Panthers, the National Association of Social Workers and a variety of other religious and social groups concerned about peace. A second group is scheduled to walk from Chicago to New York between April 2 and June 10.

FAMILY FORUM FOR ADULT CHILDREN OF ALCOHOLICS

A Family Forum on addiction will be held at the Bethel Area Health Center in April.

Designed for adult members of alcoholic families, it will be a four-session course. Adults who have been affected by another person's addiction to a drug other than alcohol are also welcome.

The progression of the addictive process and the disease will be examined. The concept of co-dependency will then be emphasized. Co-dependency relates to the process by which non-addicted people become very involved and often controlled by the chemical dependency of their loved one.

The forum will be given in four, two-hour sessions; confidentiality will be expected.

For further information contact Becky Hardy at the Health Center, 824-2193, on Mondays or Tuesdays. She may also be reached at her office at Tri-Country Mental Health Services in Rumford, at 364-7981.

Gould junior takes 2nd place at biathlon national championships

Ben Michaud, of Bethel, a junior at Gould Academy, finished second in the 10-kilometer event and fourth in the 15-kilometer event at the National Biathlon Championships, in Giants Ridge, Minn.

The good finishes secured for Michaud the third position on the seven-man U.S. junior team, which will journey to Sweden and Finland for two weeks of competition in the Polar Biathlon Cup series.

Despite a bout of pneumonia in early winter and a strenuous one-week Outward Bound expedition the week previous to the Nationals, Michaud's shooting and skiing were both excellent. He competed against 26 other top American junior biathletes who were chosen to compete for places on the U.S. team.

WORKSHOP SET FOR 4-H EARTH CONNECTIONS PROGRAM

Have you ever wondered about what keeps a forest growing, a stream moving, a bird migrating, a wildflower blooming? Are you interested in cultivating a child's curiosity about the natural world? If your answer is yes, Cooperative Extension Service has a program for you—4-H Earth Connections.

Earth Connections is a new program designed to help young people appreciate and understand their natural connections to the environment. During the next few weeks, the program will be holding training workshops for teachers, 4-H volunteer leaders and others interested in becoming involved with Earth Connections.

All-day workshops will begin at 10 and continue until 3, April 16, at the Conservation School, Bryant Pond.

"The Earth Connections program is designed to provide you with the knowledge, confidence, teaching skills and tools to develop an appreciation of nature in children," said 4-H Natural Resources Educator, Paul Hlina. "We've developed Earth Connections so that it is easily adapted, whether teaching in the forest or at the schoolyard."

Training workshop participants will experience the program first-hand, as both teacher and student in the natural environment. Workshop leaders are professional natural resources educators. Extension agents, and volunteer leaders. Continuing education credits are available for teachers seeking recertification.

To register for one of the workshops, or for additional information, please contact Paul Hlina, 4-H Natural Resources Educator, University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service, The Maples, Orono, Maine, 04469, 581-3871, or Frank Wertheim, Extension Agent, RFD 2, Box 1735, South Paris, Maine, 04281, 743-6329.
